

THE DAILY HERALD, Tuesday, June 2, 2015

Media Lab instructor trains pupils, parents, teachers

PHILIPSBURG--Instructor Pauline Maas of the Netherlands has just rounded off a total of 18 information technology workshops, held over two weeks starting May 18, aimed at pupils, parents and teachers. She visited St. Maarten as one of the many Information and Communication Technology (ICT) workshop presenters for the Media Lab project.

The Philipsburg Jubilee Library shared that there was a full schedule of computer workshops at its Media Lab, and Foresee Foundation which fuels the local DigiKidz project, also shared that pupils, teachers and parents of the two schools to implement the DigiKidz project so far "had a great learning experience as they underwent technology training through workshops on programming and the use of social media."

These DigiKidz schools are the Asha Stevens Hillside Christian School and Sev-

Excited pupils look at a three-dimensional (3D) colour app by Quiver.

Pauline Maas (left) instructing schoolchildren at the Me-